

Adult Literacy Quarterly Connection Summer 2013 Edition

Join The Philadelphia Adult Literacy Alliance

The Philadelphia Adult Literacy Alliance held its quarterly meeting on June 19th. As anticipated, the gathering was full of both networking and resource sharing designed to help our local literacy community best prepare adult learners in becoming employable and engaged citizens.

Did you miss the meeting? View meeting materials here.

Alliance members will receive exclusive meeting invitations along with valuable peer networking and professional development opportunities. Don't miss out...enrolling online is fast and free!

Professional Development Trainings

The Commission kicks off summer PD with our Learning to Achieve 2013 Series: Providing Literacy Instruction to Adults with Learning Disabilities. This training series will increase your knowledge and skills to better meet the needs of your adult learners that are dealing with learning disabilities.

Registration and details on this training series can be found here.

Become a Tech Tutor

Adult learners don't just need tutors, they need "Tech Tutors!"

If you've completed The Commission's basic tutor training, have experience with technology, and would like to help adult learners increase their basic computer skills, consider become a Tech Tutor!

Tech Tutors provide adult learners with tutoring to enhance their general literacy skills through the integrated use of technology.

Learn more about Tech Tutors here, e-mail Program Coordinator Yuri Seung, or call (215)686-5252 to get involved! It will be the smartest move you make this summer!
